

Table of contents

Introduction	7
--------------	---

Part 1 Challenges in marketing communications. New directions

Chapter 1. Consumer attitudes as a basis for developing new directions in marketing communications in Poland	13
Magdalena Dołhasz

Chapter 2. The impact of the exhibitor's cultural context on the use of forms of communication in the management process of the exhibitor's participation in fairs	27
Anita Proszowska

Chapter 3. Multiscreening as a way of reaching a consumer – idea and possibilities	39
Kamila Peszko

Part 2 Challenges of consumer behaviour. Young consumer online and offline

Chapter 4. Children as recipients of marketing communication on the Internet	53
Małgorzata Budzanowska-Drzewiecka

Chapter 5. Individual determinants of propensity to make purchases as part of e-commerce and m-commerce in Polish young consumers	73
Małgorzata Budzanowska-Drzewiecka

Chapter 6. Motives for consumption among Polish young consumers	87
Karolina Korycka

Chapter 7. Attractiveness of job fair for students as a platform for searching and exchange of information	99
Małgorzata Budzanowska-Drzewiecka, Anita Proszowska

Part 3 Challenges on the labour market. Specific groups of employees

Chapter 8. Use of gamification in the process of selection of candidates for the position in the opinion of young adults in Poland	115
Monika Krasulak

Chapter 9. Agency and communion in LinkedIn professional candidates' profiles. Bias in recruitment process?	129
Michał Chmiel

Chapter 10. The specificity of selected tools of development of social competencies among IT specialists	143
Jerzy Rosiński

Chapter 11. Perception of work environment among women and men – workload and autonomy in relation to job engagement	155
Magdalena Jaworek, Anna Maria Dyląg

Notes about the Authors	175
-------------------------	-----