

Acknowledgements

Foreword Preface

Chapter 1. Historical and archaeological evidence

1.1. Geographical context

1.2. Historical evidence

1.3. Administrative affiliations based on written sources

1.4. Archaeological evidence

1.4.1. Site topography

1.4.2. History of research

Chapter 2. Context, stratigraphy and classification criteria

2.1. Context and stratigraphy of the pottery finds

2.1.1. Late Hellenistic period

2.1.2 Early Roman period

2.2. Typological and chronological classification

2.3. Presentation of the ceramic material

2.3.1. Description and typology

2.3.2. Select parallels and dating

2.3.3. Illustrations and catalogue

2.3.4. Jiyeh site sector D assemblage

Chapter 3. Late Hellenistic pottery production

3.1. General description

3.2. Late Hellenistic Jiyeh Ware: macroscopic description

3.3. Typology of forms

3.3.1. Amphorae

3.3.1.1. "Phoenician" style amphorae

3.3.1.2. "Greek" style amphorae

3.3.2. Kitchen vessels

3.3.2.1. Closed vessels for storing and serving liquids

3.3.2.1.1. Table amphorae

3.3.2.1.2. Jugs

3.3.2.1.3. Juglets

3.3.2.1.4. Trefoil juglets

3.3.2.1.5. Lagynos-like juglets

3.3.2.1.6. Flat flasks/bottles

3.3.2.2. Cooking vessels and utensils

3.3.2.2.1. Cooking pots

3.3.2.2.2. Casseroles

3.3.2.2.3. Stands

3.3.2.2.4. Braziers

3.3.2.2.5. Lids

3.3.2.3. Other kitchen vessels

3.3.2.3.1. Bowls

3.3.2.3.2. Lekanai

3.3.2.3.3. Kraters

3.3.2.3.4. Jars

3.3.2.3.5. Funnels

3.4. Summary

Chapter 4. Early Roman pottery production

4.1. General description

4.2. Early Roman Jiyeh Ware: macroscopic description

4.3. Typology

4.3.1. Amphorae

4.3.2. Kitchen vessels

4.3.2.1. Closed vessels for storing and serving liquids

4.3.2.1.1. Table amphorae

4.3.2.1.2. Jugs

4.3.2.1.3. Juglets

4.3.2.1.4. Trefoil juglets

4.3.2.1.5. Lagynos

4.3.2.1.6. Lagynos-like juglets

4.3.2.2. Cooking vessels and utensils

4.3.2.2.1. Cooking pots

4.3.2.2.2. Casseroles

4.3.2.2.3. Pans

4.3.2.2.4. Bollitore

4.3.2.2.5. Stands

4.3.2.3. Other kitchen vessels

4.3.2.3.1. Bowls

4.3.2.3.2. Lekane

4.3.2.3.3. Kraters

4.3.2.3.4. Pot with merlons Summary

Chapter 5. Porphyreon's place in the Phoenician hinterland: interpretation of the evidence 51 Administrative relation to Sidon and Berytus: the ceramic evidence

5.2. Regional connections with southern Phoenicia: the ceramic evidence

5.3. Distribution of vessels produced in Porphyreon

5.4. Organisation of ceramic production in Hellenistic and Roman Phoenicia

Chapter 6. Conclusions

Catalogue

Late Hellenistic, Plates 1-42

Early Roman, Plates 43-79

Parallels from Jiyeh site sector D, Plates 80-92

Porphyreon pottery, Colour plates 93-97

References

List of figures and tables