

This book came about as the result of research encompassing a period from the 1980s (archival research) until 2014. Various media forms and diverse channels of mass communication were analysed in the selected time periods which allowed us to gather material that on the one hand was abundant and differentiated and on the other illustrated the dynam...