

Table of contents

Preface	9
Abbreviations	13
Sources	13
1. Preliminary issues	15
1.1. The object and aims of the work and research methodology	15
1.2. Sources and literature of the subject	30
1.2.1. Legal sources	30
1.2.2. Non-legal sources	35
1.2.3. Literature of the subject	37
2. The position of diocesan vicars in administrative structures of the Empire	39
2.1. General remarks	39
2.2. The Titulature of diocese administrators and diocesan organization	46
2.2.1. General remarks	46
2.2.2. Titulature of vicars – detailed remarks and changes in the organization of dioceses before 535.	52
2.3.3. Separate status of individual diocesan administrators	77
3. Organization of judicature within the office of diocesan vicars	88
3.1. General issues	88
3.2. The officium of diocesan vicars	94
4. Judiciary of the vicars in the light of legal sources	109
4.1. Imperial constitutions preserved in Codex Theodosianus of 438 and novella Marciani 1 of 450	109
4.2. Imperial constitutions preserved in Codex Iustinianus of 534 and novella Iustiniani 23 of 535	214
5. Judiciary of vicars in the light of non-legal sources	236
5.1. Iconographic sources	236
5.2. Literary and epigraphic sources	256
6. Territorial administration after Justinian’s reforms	281
7. Conclusions	288
List of maps, tables and figures	303
Bibliography	305
Index locorum	378